Why Experiment?

Investigation before you buy is better than regret afterward! When you buy life insurance, you enter into a contract which-by its nature-matures after you are gone. It is to your interest to select the company as carefully as you would your executor. The Union Central Life, of Cincinnati, has a record of nearly fifty years of efficiency, over 75 million dollars paid to policyholders, and now has over seven millions of its assets loaned in Texas, on farms and to policyholders.

Why experiment? The two things you should consider are safety and cost, and the Union Central Life has assets of 95 million dollars, combined with the lowest net cost record the world over. It's better to start right than be sorry, and you'll find, on investigation, that the only thing Union Central policyholders are sorry about is that they didn't buy more, Ask any of them.

street turned at the same time. Little Baby Billy was sitting on the curb, delighted with himself, and was tugging away at his remaining shoe. The other he had thrown as far as his ability would allow into the street and it had been crushed by a wagon. He was evidently going to throw the other after it. Billy looked sympathetically at his offspring and picked him up.

"Shoe pinch me," remarked Baby, as if that was sufficient to explain.
"Did the Shoe hurt Betty's boy!" asked Betty, as she kissed the chubby cheeks. "Well, Billy, no doubt they did hurt him. He's growing so, you know. We shall have to get him some at once." 'I need a pair, several pair in fact, myself," said Billy, "and you need some too, I think. Let's go to a shoe store and lay in a stock." Holding Baby in his arms, because the youngster was now shoeless, Billy led the way until they came to the store of Given Bros., expert shoe fitters, at 215 El Paso St., and there the family turned and entered, for, as Billy explained, this was the best place in the city to get shoes and all sorts of footwear, owing to the large stock carried and the fact that they are out of the high rent district and can give real $4.00 and $5.00 values for $2.50 and $3.50. First Baby was fitted. Betty bought the daintiest little slippers for the ingster to wear when he was dressed up, and some shoes that were so comfortable as to make him laugh all over.

For herself Betty consulted the good taste of Mr. Given, who waited on them, and as a result she bought some of the sensible shoes for ladies' street wear that this firm makes a feature of. Then she bought some dainty slippers for home wear, and some cute but fashionable ties to wear when receiving company. Nor did she forget her party slippers. These were just of the shade to match her evening gown, and at prices so low she was su rprised.

Billy now began to order. Given Bros.' stock of footwear for men is so large that Billy would have liked to have bought some of every kind of shoe and oxfords offered, but what he did was to get a pair of walking shoes for street wear, a pair of fashionably shaped shoes for dress, patent leather ties and plain leather ties, and a comfortable pair of slippers for lounging.
